To the Buff and White the head should be broad and deep with a short, white beak and large reddish bay eye. All varieties have a single comb that should have five even serrations with the blade following the head shape. Bright red wattles of medium size and red oblong ear lobes are required. A broad back that carries its width, of medium length, and a full sweep into the tail which is carried at an angle of forty-five degrees is the ideal. Some cushion is usually found and is preferable to a long, flat ford, but those living in near-by towns, will be sorry to hear of the passing of Colonel Harry R. Farris, which occurred at the Oxford Sanitarium on Friday. His death was not unlooked for, as he had been sick for some six weeks with an incurable disease. He was born in Oxford January 25, 1874, the son of William R. and Henrietta McAllister Farris. He graduated from the Oxford High School in 1894, and from Hebron Academy two years later, then took a medical course in the University of Vermont, completing his studies in 1899. After graduating he began the practice of medicine in his native town. He at once took a prominent the season, and this year's concert will be one of exceptional interest to the public, as he presents two phenomenal artists in a joint recital, Miss Lottice Howell, lyric soprano from the opera in New York, and Mr. Kola Levienne, the world renowned cellist, Those who had the good fortune of hearing this wizard of the cello last fall at the Maine Music Festival, realize what a treat is in store for them. He was easily classed as the star of the last festival, and received the greatest ovation of any artist there. He is now on a tour as the only assisting artist with the great Chaliapin, and when their tour ends he will have played from Coast to Coast, capitals before coming to this country and made his debut in Russia at the age of eight, and has long been recognized as the greatest cellist in Russia. He is a whole concert in himself, and single engagements are from $500 to $800 a performance for him alone. . These figures are given so that the public can horoughly realize what a colossal artist Mr. Levienne is. He will play music of all schools, and a program that will please all tastes. If Mr. Chapman had ot made this contract a year ago, would be impossible to bring him here. Mr. Chapman was most enthusiastic over the good fortune to secure Miss Lottice Howell, soprano from the New York Opera Company, for this tour of concerts. She has been the leading regular meeting last week Monday night, soprano of that company for the past they gave a very pleasant time in a social season, which has just closed in New orleans. For the past three seasons Mr. Chapman has been most anxious to present this wonderful little artist at the Maine Music Festivals, but owing to other engagements this has been impossible. She possesses a lyric voice of a most beautiful quality, and a wonderful range. Besides singing in the opera, she South and West, making a program which embraces all schools. Clear the Decks!

When a great battleship goes into action the first order is "clear the decks!" Every possible thing is eliminated that could in any way hamper the efficient movements of the men and the operation of the guns. No superfluous equipment is visible! The decks are really cleared. The result is, of course, one hundred per cent accomplishment! The same result is possible in the average kitchen, if the principle of elimination is applied. How many kitchens of good housekeepers are vendered in of good housekeepers are rendered in-convenient and time wasting by the fact that they are fairly cluttered with a hundred and one unnecessary things.
